

Itinerary & Inclusions

20 days St Petersburg to Beijing Essentials

Destination	St. Petersburg to Beijing (June to September 2019)
Travel Dates	20 Days – Sundays from St Petersburg

Capital of Russia at the height of its Imperial era (1723-1918), St Petersburg is a dazzling mixture of baroque, rococo, classical and belle-epoque buildings created by Europe's leading architects of the day. Nevsky Prospekt is the city's main Parisian-style avenue, and radiating from it are grand boulevards and canal embankments lined with the former palaces of Russia's aristocracy. These days Nevsky is lined with world-name shops, alongside eateries priced from serf through to Grand-Duke... plus java-joints, internet cafes, museums, churches, theatres and more.

St Petersburg to Moscow – Sapsan Train, Economy Seat

Departure: Thursday, Day 5 @ 9:00am

Arrival: Thursday, Day 5 @ 12:58pm

Moscow took over the role of Russia's capital when the Mongols razed Kiev to the ground in the Middle Ages... its famous gold onion-domes have the image of Russia you'll barely find in St Petersburg. Much of Moscow still bears witness to those early days. The Kremlin is a huge 15th-century citadel built when marauding Mongolian troops were still a real menace. Its enormous fortified walls guard the ancient Kremlin Cathedrals within, once the centrepiece of the Russian Orthodox Church – and now once again restored to religious use. The colossal Treasure of the Russian Tsars is now on view within the Kremlin too, securely displayed in the former Armoury Chamber. Muscovites are addicted to pleasure, and the city overflows with stupendous restaurants, bars, clubs, & coffee-shops. Winter was always the holiday-time in Russia (too cold to work outdoors on building or farming) and with that came theatres – Russians love a show, and the Bolshoi Theatre is world famous (opera & ballet, on their "No 2" stage whilst the main theatre's being rebuilt). Come in winter to see Russians at play (theatres shut in summer here!), or in summer take a stroll in the Botanical Gardens? Muscovites love to party, and the wild nightclubs or chic bars open until very late, year-round.

Moscow to Ekaterinburg – Overnight Train, 2 or 4 berth

Departure: Saturday, Day 7 @ 4:38pm

Arrival: Sunday, Day 8 @ 8:04pm

Including Ekaterinburg in a holiday itinerary would have been an impossibility in the not too distant past – hidden away in the heart of the Urals, it has been the backdrop for things which Russia wanted to keep quiet – including some very dark moments in Russia’s history. Now of course you can travel there by train, and discover this fascinating city on your great Russian adventure.

City Tour of Ekaterinburg

Walking - 3 hours

Start: 10:00am

You will be met in the hotel reception by an English-speaking guide. Enjoy a guided walking tour of Ekaterinburg.

On this tour your guide will lead you through the historical center of the city. You will see statues of Ekaterinburg’s founders and communist leaders, and the guide will tell you some local stories, legends and jokes, related to them. On the 1905 Revolution square you will view all the history of the city on the ancient pictures shown by our guide. There will be an opportunity to visit splendid Church of Spilled Blood at the Romanovs’ Death Site and the Chapel of St. Elizabeth. You will observe beautiful views of Ekaterinburg and the City Pond from an embankment and from the Hill of Ascension. The sorrowful Afghanistan memorial at the Square of Red Army, gorgeous villas of Urals “gold merchants” of 19th century and monumental buildings in “Stalin’s neoclassicism” style are to survey, too.

Listvyanka*Irkutsk Station to Listvyanka

On arrival at Irkutsk Railway Station a local representative will be waiting for you on the platform. Shared vehicle transfer to your accommodation in Listvyanka village on the shores of Lake Baikal.

Baikal is the world's largest stretch of fresh water, and the largest lake on the planet. Formed by plate tectonic movements of the earth's molten crust, it's a unique environment where species long extinct elsewhere have their strange existence. Baikal has the only freshwater seals in the world – nerpa nerpa – stranded here thousands of miles from the sea. Still odder is the strange golomka, which lives at such depths – Baikal is the world's deepest lake, over a mile to the bottom – that it explodes due to pressure-change if netted and dragged to the surface. Some of the animals, fish, algae and plants found in Lake Baikal are unique – and as you gaze over this vast expanse of water you sense it may contain much more than has so far been discovered. Lake Baikal was the biggest problem that faced the Trans-Siberian Railway builders – its huge size (40 miles across) lay directly in the path of the railroad. Their first solution was a steamer accommodating the entire train, and ferrying it safely to the other side – but winter temperatures forced them to lay tracks directly over the pack-ice when the Lake wasn't navigable. Having lost several locos through holes in the ice (there are a few warm springs down there..) the Circum-Baikal Line was built.

The “Paris of Siberia’, For most visitors, Irkutsk is principally the gateway to nearby Lake Baikal. However, its charming streets with old wooden houses suggest an era when the journey here was not cosy nights in the starched sheets of a sleeper-wagon – but over a month of frost-bitten misery, desperate conditions, and nights in flea-bitten roadside taverns... and Irkutsk the welcoming comfort of a substantial city after the hideous journey.

Irkutsk to Ulaanbaatar – Overnight Train, 2 or 4 berth

Departure: Monday, Day 16 @ 8:08am

Arrival: Tuesday, Day 17 @ 6:50am

Tuesday

Day 17

Ulaanbaatar is the world's most land-locked city. Ulaanbaatar – “Red Hero” – is a strangely attractive mixture of ancient temples and Buddhist lamaseries, alongside some ugly Soviet-era buildings built as “a gift” for the Mongolians by the USSR. On top of this are new cafes, bars, coffee-shops, internet-cafes and new-agey places. When you consider the city's remote location – just north of the baking Gobi Desert, and south of the freezing Steppes of Siberia, it's really remarkable that it's there at all! Don't miss visiting the Gandan Lamasery (“Gandantegchinlen” in full) – the largest and most important Buddhist monastery in the country. Like Tibet, the priest-kings of Mongolia were chosen by the Dalai-Lama in Lhasa – it would always be a Tibetan boy, sent to Mongolia at an early age. The Residence of the Bogdo-Khan (“Priest-King”) can also be visited, as can the Chojin Temple (although it's now a museum). Don't miss a chance to see the strange Central Department Store – where you can buy a home cinema system... or a ger.

Ulaanbaatar to Terelj National Park

Gandan Monastery & Genghis Khan touring

You will be met in the hotel reception at around 9am (time will be reconfirmed locally). Enjoy a morning visit to the Gandan Monastery complex. Afterwards transfer to your ger camp in Terelj National Park with a visit to a Nomadic family and guided tour of the magnificent Genghis Khan Equestrian Statue en-route.

The Genghis Khan Equestrian Statue, part of the Genghis Khan Statue Complex is a 40 metre tall statue of Genghis Khan on horseback, on the bank of the Tuul River at Tsonjin Boldog (54 km) east of Ulaanbaatar, where according to legend, he found a golden whip. The statue is symbolically pointed east towards his birthplace. It is on top of the Genghis Khan Statue Complex, a visitor centre, itself 10 metres tall, with 36 columns representing the 36 khans from Genghis to Ligdan Khan. It was designed by sculptor D. Erdenebileg and architect J. Enkhjargal and erected in 2008. Visitors walk to the head of the horse through its chest and neck of the horse for panoramic views.

Terelj National Park

Buuveit Ger Camp 1 night, full board. Private ger tent.

Buuveit camp is located in the Gorkhi Terelj National Park 65 km's north east of Ulaanbaatar. The National Park Gorkhi-Terelj includes the southern Khentii mountain range. Terelj is one of the Mongolian mostly visited and protected areas. It offers natural beautiful scenery, interesting rock formations and is covered by forests, wetlands and alpine tundra. The Buuviet Ger Camp is open year-round. Facilities include - 220 V central electricity, Deep well with artesian water, 70 bed guest - Gers for overnight, 16 bed Winter houses, 60 seat Ger – Restaurant, Information Ger with Mongolian national games, Modern bar in a Ger, Souvenir shop, Fully equipped rest rooms (during Summer only!), Outside barbecue and bar.

Day 18

Ulaanbaatar

Ger Camp to Ulaanbaatar

National Museum and Chinggis Square

Mid-morning transfer from your ger camp back to Ulaanbaatar for the rest of your city tour. Enjoy a visit to Chinggis Square and the National Museum.

Mongolia's National Museum takes visitors from the Neolithic era right to the present day. It offers an unparalleled overview of Mongolian culture, ranging from stone-age petroglyphs and exquisite gold ornamentation to the full gamut of traditional ceremonial costumes. The 1st floor has some interesting exhibits on Stone Age sites in Mongolia, as well as petroglyphs, deer stones (stone sculptures of reindeer and other animals) and burial sites from the Hun and Uighur eras. The 2nd floor houses an outstanding collection of costumes, hats and jewellery, representing most of Mongolia's ethnic groups. The 3rd floor is a must-see for fans of the Mongol horde. The collection includes real examples of 12th-century Mongol armour. There is also a display of traditional Mongolian culture with, among other things, a furnished ger, traditional herding and domestic implements, saddles and musical instruments. It also covers the Soviet era, including the suit of cosmonaut Jügderdemidiin Gurragchaa, the first Mongolian in space. At the conclusion of your tour transfer to hotel.
